Whereas the City of Somerset is predicted with great confidence to receive the combination of heavy snow and/or ice precipitation (Sperry-Plitz Ice Accumulation Index damage categories 1 to 3 foreseen) on January 24 and 25, 2026, followed by constant freezing temperatures for approximately one week.

Whereas spot natural gas prices are 10 times normal prices 48 hours ahead of the storm.

I direct all City staff to coordinate their actions as effectively and efficiently as possible with the Commonwealth of Kentucky and the County of Pulaski emergency management.

All emergency powers or local government functions enumerated to Kentucky Local Governments in KRS 39A.100 and 39B.070 are hereby invoked and may be utilized by City staff in preparation, response, recovery and rebuild.

As more information on specific actions to be taken and needs are assessed, this Emergency Declaration may and will be amended.

The Emergency Declaration made by me, under my hand, on this day of January 23, 2026.
